

A Letter from Sybil Jones

To The Daughters of Colette, first I would like to give honor to my creator the most high God, for giving me this assignment. He is the reason; I am here and able to share with you the love of the father that is in my heart. God saw this assignment in me before I was born, and he never gave up on me during the times when I thought it was impossible. Yes, I thought it was impossible because I was looking at my ability, and not factoring in his ability to help me accomplish what is needed to help you. The night I answered the call to this assignment was so empowering for me because God had answered my prayer, "What am I here for?" I knew God had a plan for me, but I did not know what. Now, I know, and it was to help you, every young single mother in our nations with furniture and teach you how to cope with living on your own God's way.

Remember, I said I was looking at how I was going to accomplish everything needed for this assignment to my ability. I was trying to figure it all out on my own, but fear would grab me every time. When fear came, I did not move forward. One day looking back over my journal, I read "When God gives you direction, he qualifies you to do it. It has nothing to do with your education or the family you are from. When you take him at his command and the moment you say yes, you are not only qualified but you are also empowered to do it. The father, who does the work, dwells within. When God reveals the plan, do not let the devil speak fear, go on, God will not let you get out there and sink." Kenneth Copeland. This statement has been an anchor for me. It made me realize the Father that dwells within would help me and I had to relinquish my ability to think I was alone and remember God was there to help me. This led me to understand from Joseph in the Bible when they would ask him to tell them what a dream meant, he would always say "It was the Father who gave the interpretation." He never took credit. "If you answer Satan, he will do the work. If you answer God he will do the work, the process does not change." Kenneth Copeland. I live by what the father says to me concerning this organization, and it brings me peace that I am aligned with his will for my life. I do not have to walk in fear because I seek him first concerning you and what he would have me to do daily.

Furthermore, I am grateful to share this organization with the world. That God called me to walk out of my dream and show the love of the Father everywhere I go. Everything I do, have you in mind, and because of that I am living 1 John 4:21 TPT "For he has given us this command: whoever loves God must also demonstrate love to others." That is why I started this assignment with God, to show you that he is here to help you in every circumstance. He knows all about you because he created you. Always remember to seek him first, and you will never have to wonder about your life. You will walk as people of victory from this organization's work.
